Festival Greetings from Just the Tonic

We are back for 2011 and we are bigger, brighter and much much better. This year we have taken on 2 new venues... added to The Caves are The Tron and The Store (formerly Grv). We have 84 shows appearing with us, 81 are comedy, 2 are theatre and one of them is our late night Disco in a Dungeon. What fun!

Last year we had 6 spaces and managed to get ourselves an Edinburgh Award Nomination with Josie Long. There were rumours of other possible nominations, but we may have started those. This year we have so much more fun stuff to see.

Hopefully you will be enticed by our fine selection of shows. Have a browse through this. We've put in a few bits of editorial from some of the performers to make it a bit more interesting. The shows are listed in time order, so you can plan your day, and in the middle pages we have an alphabetical listing with page references for different shows. We've thought of everything.

Book some tickets online, over the phone or at our box office in the Caves (we've also got a little box office in The Store). Grab a drink and maybe some nosh. You will find everything reasonably priced. But most of all... come to some shows, have a right old laugh and then head over to us for a Disco in a Dungeon.

If you'd like a cheap taster of what we offer, then try Afternoon Delight, a 1pm sample show. See something you like and get a discount from that show. Bonanza!

GUTEN TAG!

Welcome to Just the Tonic, Edinburgh's finest bunker!

It's Edinburgh Fringe time again! The one month the local community is waiting for all year.

In addition to the year-round annoyance of Spanish tourists aimlessly wandering up and down a tramless Princess Street there is now a good helping of amateur dramatic productions overcrowding The Royal Mile, too.

Cafes are full of drama students whispering – no, never whispering – always at full throttle, telling the world and her Mutter about their made-up reviews on fictional websites and how they know someone who once wrote a sitcom “that almost got commissioned by Channel 5”.

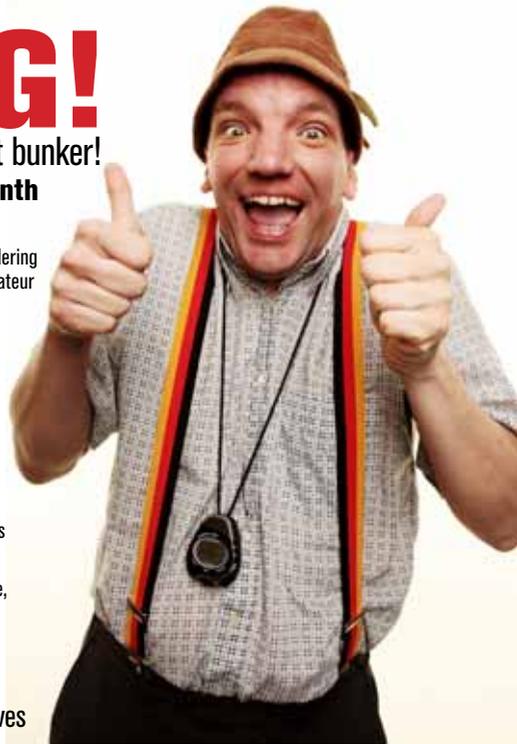

Like comedy itself visiting the Edinburgh Fringe is all about timing. Come early in the run and marvel at shows that are still rough round the edges but performed with passion, hope and excitement.

Come later in the run if you like your shows well run in and your performers disillusioned and teetering on the brink of a nervous breakdown.

Whenever you come - enjoy the unique atmosphere of the Edinburgh Fringe, the world's greatest arts festival, and please make sure you don't slip on one of those discarded flyers!

No Surrender!

Piff the Magic Dragon on...

Owning a Chihuahua

2010's cult hit Piff returns with the hottest dragoncessory and some advice for those following suit...

Consider the impact on your social life. Many venues don't allow Chihuahuas. Hide them in a bag. Or buy a pram and introduce your surprisingly hairy baby.

Don't expect much in return. Chihuahuas contribute very little to running a small business. They can barely do accounts. They do, however, contribute many small businesses.

Get insurance. Today's urban environment has many dangers: big dogs, squirrels, eagle attacks in open spaces. Insurance means that if something does happen... Free holiday! (Fancy a holiday? Consider long walks in open spaces.)

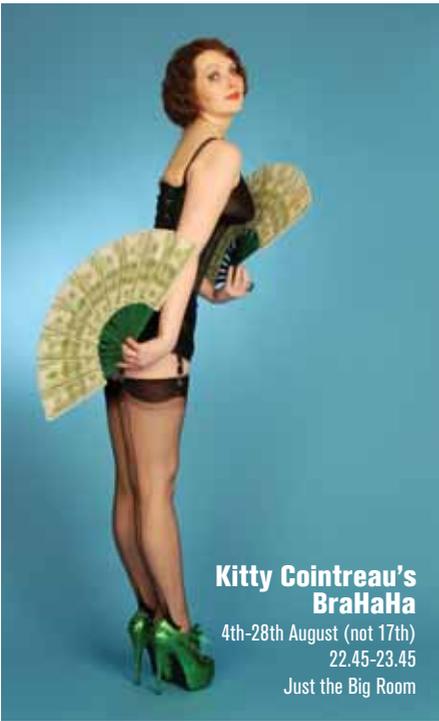

Get used to female attention. It gets very boring. (That's a lie. It's never boring. Milk it!)

Start saving. Chihuahuas are expensive. Sometimes they even need feeding. How about a cute stage dog just finishing his showbiz career?

WHAT'S YOUR BURLESQUE NAME?

Ever wondered why burlesque artistes have glamorous names?

Probably not... but bet you didn't come across many Daiquiri's or Dita's at school, did you? Well, it's not because we have boho parents like Chris Martin and Gwyneth Paltrow. Our birth certificates haven't suffered a cruel prank. It's part of the magic of a burlesque persona. Alliteration is the perfect foundation for a burlesque name, add a boozy treat, a precious stone or sparkle!

Try these on for size to discover yours...

The name of your first pet + your favourite liqueur or cocktail

A snazzy colour + Von + the pet name your partner/friends give you

Your favourite gemstone or jewel + La + your favourite Disney character
