Achtung fun-seekers!

You've come to the right place for bridled jolliness - the Edinburgh comedy trade fair.

There is no shortage of sufficiently enjoyable shows but make sure you don't ruin them with ill-advised applause. In comedy, applause is the most important instrument of customer feedback and it's YOUR duty to use it appropriately.

Don't even think of applauding acts frenetically for nothing more than walking on.

This makes the ensuing performance pointless. Excitement can only get lost. Worse than undeserved applause at the start, is loud clapping during a show.

Not only does it waste valuable joke time in the strict confinement of a 60-minute slot, it also takes away from the carefully crafted narrative arc.

I would ask you to stick to the much superior system of my native Germany, where laughter and applause are only ever used to shorten an inept performance while excellence is rewarded with admiring silence.

Vielen Dank!

A GREAT BIG HELLO

Welcome to Just the Tonic at The Caves. This is our 2nd year at The Caves, after a few years slogging it out at The Café Royal and then 2 years homeless.

THIS BROCHURE

You should read this. It will tell you which shows we have on in a chronological order type of listing. We also have an alphabetical listing at the back. We have shiny adverts and we also have editorial from some of our performers, such as Josie Long, Simon Donald (From Viz magazine), Henning Wehn, Seymour Mace blah de blah de blah... look inside

THE VENUE

We honestly think we have the most exciting venue in Edinburgh. Are any of the others part of the Ghost Tour... NO! Did any of the others win Best Small Venue 2009 Award... No! Are any of the others under a bridge... well, yes, but none of them have been done out as well as this place. It's a proper bar, it has lovely food and friendly staff.

THE SHOWS

We have comedy, story telling, sketch shows, a kids show, a free show (fingers crossed), music & theatre. Around 58 shows a day from 11.35am - 4am. Fordy starts us off with his hangover show. We close at 4am after our party / late bar.

OUR STORY

Pull up a chair, get a pint and I'll tell you a tale... but I'll cut it short here (find me floating around and I'll regale you with tales of famous people who have forgotten them, stories that I've exaggerated, and things that never happened) We started as a comedy club in 1994, put on some shows, came to Edinburgh loads, booked comedians, produced a load of events, managed a few comics, made some friends, probably made a few enemies, entertained a load of people, produced some tours, blagged an amazing venue in London, Edinburgh and now in Nottingham. Nearly paid off 15 year overdraft. Please enjoy our most recent results...

FORDY'S LOCK IN HIGHLIGHTS

Welcome to the Edinburgh Festival. The greatest boozeathon on earth.

Some people seem to think this is a place for artistic expression and the celebration of talent. Tosh. We all know the truth. It's about getting bozz-faced until the early hours and waking up in England a month later.

Every night I'll be hosting 'Fordy's Lock-In'. Everyone joining me in the pub is a comedian and pal. Come, drink and watch your favourite comedians swap the sorts of stories they don't usually tell on stage and getting into a right old state doing it. As well as seeing big comedy names like Tim Vine, Alun Cochrane, Jon Richardson and Pappy's you'll also get to see rising stars like Carl Donnelly, Paul McCaffrey and Seann Walsh.

Then, in the morning I'll be picking over the remains of the night and the papers of the morning with 'Fordy's Hangover Breakfast'. Have a bacon cob and start the day with a sore head.

Here are some of the highlights I've had at the Lock-In in the past...

Danger Darts

Having a dartboard added danger when Thomas Parry of Pappy's threw darts at my hand and luckily missed. I got my own back later though when he ended up drinking his own piss. Prat.

Heartburn Hotel

I properly enjoyed myself last year and went for it every night. It hit me like a van on the last night of the festival when I had the shivers all day. I tried to be healthy by having a salad. It gave me heartburn. I woke up at home a month later wondering where August had gone.

Stupid Stunts

Chris Stokes launched himself off a high bar, onto a concrete stage and onto the floor. Ben Clarke leapt off a balcony. I drank a pint through a sock. I know, those two couldn't believe they'd been upstaged.

I've had some classic shows in the past. Jon Richardson v Richard Bacon; Gav Webster v Mick Ferry and John Robins v his own demons.

Come along, have a pint and join in the fun.

Fordy presents his Lock In at 00.20am and his Hangover Show at 11.35am in the Fancy Room

CUT-OUT & KEEP
CAROLINE MABEY'S MR SKRANGLES BROOCH
 HE'S A SCRAMBLED EGG

Breakfast is unsettling at the best of times. And during the Edinburgh festival it can strike at any time. Be prepared with this useful Mr Skrangles Scrambled Egg badge.

Download this fun safety pin and clip it onto your badge to make a badge.

EGGS FACT
 Eggs come in all shapes and sizes but an enduring favourite is the egg-shape or oval (from the Latin ovum, meaning egg).
 Eggs are a good thing to have around at breakfast as they have bags of personality plus protein and whatever that white stuff is.

EAT YOUR FRIENDS

WATCH HIM SPEAK
 Make Mr Skrangles say whatever you like! Simply cut out the white letters below and resize them on your photocopier. Then carefully paste them over the letters in the speech bubble to reveal a pristine white space. Use the alphabet below to program your own message.

HELLO! I AM Josephine I. Long AND THIS IS A SELECTION OF HINTS & TIPS OF Things that make me excited about returning to Edinburgh after a year off...

BLAH BLAH! BE HONOURABLE BLAH BLAH ME NOW

WEIRD, OFTEN POINTLESS GIGS LATE AT NIGHT, WHERE SOMETIMES, BLOODY MAGIC HAPPENS! *

WATCHING THE SHOWS OF MY CONIC HEROES!

seeing new comedians I've not heard of before and getting excited about the fun and neverending potential stand up comedy has. Why not go to some free fringe package shows? And some competition heats?

And smoking hot Australian comedians like Claudia O Doherty, Felicity Ward and Sam Simmons!

DAY TRIPS! To the seaside! All around the city! Indie pilgrimages to Glasgow!

THE ROYAL COMMONWEALTH SWIMMING POOL

VEGAN CHEESE SPINACH & VEGGIE HAGGIS.

WHO KNEW? (FROM THE SHOP OFF THE ROYAL MILE)

NICHOLSON STREET charity shops

posh veggie cake book shop

TREATS ALL THE WAY UP!

Late night chips and people-watching at the city restaurant.

I think these suggestions are lame and too obvious. I give them 2 * * *

NOT READING REVIEWS. WHO CARES?!

* I now realise this sentence is a bit unclear grammatically. I meant bloody as in bloody great not as in botched medical experiments. * * this doesn't refer to the above note.

So? You had your brother's baby & sold the story to pick-me-up. Touché.

HAS THIS PAGE GIVEN YOU A HEADACHE?

Sing-a-Long with Loretta Maine

c@*k Sucking Mother F#*er (Isn't Love a Funny Thing)

*So you thought you'd fuck around with her behind my back,
But you didn't see me coming with that baseball bat.
It was all Hugs and Kisses but that was all lies
You're just like all those other guys.*

*So I took all your stuff and I threw it outside
I covered it with kerosene and I watched it fry.
Then I called up your boss and told him all you said,
Then I called your Mom and told her you were Dead.*

*Isn't love a funny thing,
Isn't love a funny thing!*

*I tell you what was funny, was how much that you bled,
With only one single blow to your head
And as you fell to your knees with your last fateful cry
I stubbed my cigarette out in your eye.*

*This song holds a warning for all those who cheat
Remember women wear stilettos on their feet
And rings on their fists and daggers in their glare,
So if I were you I just wouldn't dare.*

*Ain't it funny how your life went to the gutter?
You c@*k sucking Mother f#*er!*

SIMON DONALD IS COMPLETELY HATSTAND CUT OUT & KEEP FOULMOUTHED FIGURINE

Now you can put the four-letter words into the mouth of the bloke off the Viz! Our artist has prepared a picture of Simon for you to cut-out and dress up as one of the five-hilarious characters from his one-man Just the Tonic show!

1 Cut Simon out roughly and stick him onto a Corn Flakes packet. Now cut him out carefully. Fold back the base at the dotted lines. Cut a slot in his mouth.

2 Cut out Simon's outfits and choose which one you want him to wear first. Put it on him, folding back the tabs.

3 Now cut out the offensive word you'd like Simon to say. Put the tail of the balloon in his mouth.

4 Stand up your Figurine anywhere you like and, remember you can change his costume and expletive at any time you like.

The Hustle

by Wil Hodgson

The most interesting way to buy My Little Ponies as a grown man is the home deal. That's where some guy who feels his daughter is too old for such girlish trappings advertises 40 Ponies for sale in the back of the paper and they're always glad to see an overweight pink haired man in a leopard print suit stood in their living room looking at the Ponies feet through a jeweller's eyeglass.

You can't go into a My Little Pony deal with any kind of innocence or naivety. People selling Ponies will try and mug you off in all kinds of ways. First of all they try and pass off stuff as Ponies that clearly aren't. You often find Rainbow Brite's horse in there. Which clearly doesn't belong. Then you get the knock offs. Cheap forgeries bought by bewildered elderly relatives from obscure corner shops. They're called things like "My Tiny Horsey".

And even when you get to what you actually came for, the state they're usually in turns your stomach and breaks your heart in equal measure. Some little girls shouldn't be allowed toys in my opinion. When they cut the manes with scissors that's one thing, you can soap up what's left of into into a Mohawk and make it into a My Little glue bag punk rocker. When they cut off the tail though there's not much you can do with that. It's annoying when you've come halfway across town to look at 40 My Little Ponies and you're faced with 10 knock offs 10 items that shouldn't be classed as My Little ponies and about 20 that are fit only for the My Little Glue Factory.

I always get a good price though. The father just wants to get me and the Ponies out the door as quickly as possible just in case another freak turns up the next day.

Wil Hodgson performs 'Punkanory' at 3.50pm in the Fancy Room
